PROFILE

As an organizational talent, I always keep track of things and I never lose my motivation that drives me to learn new things and to effectively implement what I have learned. Constant further training and getting to know new software are a matter of course to me, as well as the creation of automated workflows and the optimization of work processes.

The varied work as a diving instructor and manager on boats and in luxury resorts are multitasking jobs that have brought me a long way, both personally and professionally. Among other things, I have developed strong intercultural competence in people management and can find professional solutions in all situations.
